Are you ready to embrace your role as a leader and inspire change? What change do you really want to see for women and girls in your community?
You’ve seen the SOAR Leadership Series conversation featuring inspiring and emerging women trailblazers. You’ve read the Watch Party and Discussion Guide to help shape conversations around issues facing women and girls. Now, it is time for YOU to act and be the change that you want to see in the world. Let your passion be the driving force.

This guide walks you through a process to create a custom roadmap that leads to your vision. Don’t worry, you don’t need to answer every question; many are meant to get your mind thinking. This guide will help you to think strategically about how to take action. So, let’s begin.

Step 1: Define Your Vision
Step 2: Identify Challenges and Opportunities
Step 3: Enlist Your Audiences
Step 4: Spread the Word
Step 5: Measure Your Progress
Step 6: Reflect and Share
First things first. Your vision is the big picture roadmap of how you see change appearing in the world:

1. What’s the biggest challenge facing women and girls in your community? Make a word cloud or sketch what’s going through your mind.
2. What changes would you make to address this challenge? Create a roadmap for your vision.

3. What leadership qualities do you have and/or need to develop to bring your vision to life?

Don’t be modest. You have a lot to offer!
STEP 2: Identify Challenges and Opportunities

Change is hard and doesn’t happen overnight. Let’s identify potential roadblocks:

1. Who are your allies?

2. Who else do you need on your side? How can you influence them?

3. What is your biggest challenge?

4. Who will most likely oppose your efforts?

Business leaders? Policymakers? Community leaders?
Now that you know who you need to reach, what kind of messaging and communications do you need to reach them?

1. What beliefs or values do your audiences hold that you can tap into? Where do your values intersect?
2. What obstacles or barriers might prevent your audiences from joining your cause? Write down some of what comes to mind.

Lack of information, difference in perspective, limited awareness

3. Write three brief messages that you will use to engage your audiences.

3.
4. Name one specific request that you will ask of each audience.

Tactics can be as simple as starting a social media campaign or grabbing coffee with a local influencer. Get creative!

1. What three concrete steps will you need to take over the next 12 months to make your vision a reality? These steps are your objectives.

3.

2. Let’s start small. What is one activity or idea that you can begin to implement immediately?
3. Now let’s think bigger! Describe the most ambitious (but realistic) activity or idea that you would like to implement over the next 12 months.

Did you consider what is possible?
Did you consider how far you can stretch?
4. List the resources you’ll need to make these activities happen.

1.

2.

3.

4.

5.

6.

Consider allies, funding, in-kind support, etc.
How will you know if your action plan is heading in the right direction? Use the following questions to measure your progress.

1. Did you connect with the decision-makers who you need to influence to achieve your objectives?

3. Did the messages that you developed resonate with your audiences?

Resonated Completely

Didn’t resonate at all

4. Have you been successful in recruiting new partners to your cause?

Very successful

Not successful at all
5. How did the challenges that you anticipated facing match the challenges that you actually faced?

STEP 6: Reflect and Share

REFLECT:

Use this space below to reflect on your experience.

1. What are the top three lessons that you learned during the SOAR Leadership Series that inspired you to take action?

   1.
   3.

Throughout this journey, how has your perspective on women’s leadership changed or evolved?

Knowing what you know now, what would you do differently?

Have you experienced any significant setbacks as you’ve worked toward realizing your vision?

How has your network of women leaders strengthened or expanded throughout this process?
